"Among Kolbe's sculptures from the collection of the Kunsthalle Bremen, the standing figure 'Malay Woman' stands out because of her almost imperceptible movement of posture. In this way, the artist achieves a reserved approach to the viewer, which is reversed in its effect by the introverted facial expression of the young woman depicted. Thus tension becomes stillness. In extremely concise modelling, Kolbe also sought to achieve uniformity of form without disturbing shadow effects." (Prof. Dr Christoph Grunenberg Director of the Kunsthalle Bremen)
