

Set of 4 wood carvings "Cherubs With Instruments"

€920.00

Product no.: IN-941940

The Scottish historian Thomas Carlyle calls music the language of angels. The music-making cherubs in this ensemble are small masterpieces created in traditional craftsmanship in South Tyrol. They are made of sycamore maple wood, hand-painted and gilded with metal foil. With eyelet for hanging.

Cherub With Violin: "A violin should be played with love or not at all", the Austrian writer Joseph Wechsberg once stated, because a violin is considered a symbol of the human soul. This lovingly designed cherub conveys the joy of playing the violin to the viewer. Size 20 x 10 x 9 cm (h/w/d).

Cherub With Trombone: The festive sound of brass instruments like the trombone is an integral part of Christmas music. Played by a detailed cherub, the trombone creates a festive mood even without notes. Size 18,5 x 10 x 9 cm (h/w/d).

Cherub With Flute: When looking at the impressively natural figure, it seems as if we can hear the typical soft round sound of the transverse flute, which enjoyed great popularity, especially in Baroque music. The cherub, made in traditional craftsmanship, also bears baroque features. Size 19 x 10 x 9 cm (h/w/d).

Cherub With Lute: Angels playing the lute can often be found in Renaissance works of art, as the lute, which is native to various cultures, was considered the queen of instruments in this epoch. Size 19 x 10 x 9 cm (h/w/d).

Set of all 4 cherubs.
