

Caspar David Friedrich: Picture "Moonrise at the Sea" (1821), framed

€540.00

Product no.: IN-692732.R1

The painting "Moonrise at the Sea" from 1821 is a tender allegory of friendship and love: the young women sit in the foreground and look at their two men standing further on the horizon. The two ships on the moonlit sea symbolise the couples' common path of life and love, while the demure separation of the sexes leaves room for friendship.

Original: Oil on canvas, State Hermitage St. Petersburg, Russia.

Reproduced using the Fine Art Giclée process directly onto 100% cotton artist canvas and mounted on a wooden stretcher frame for a brilliant, authentic reproduction. The elegant solid wood model frame with gold leaf gilding perfectly rounds off the appearance.

Limited edition 499 copies. Size 65 x 79 cm (h/w).
