

Head of a Princess

€398.00

Product no.: IN-001408

The heads of princesses carved out of quartzite are striking because of their elongated skull shapes. They are among the most independent works of the Amarna sculptors. Any attempt at a medical explanation is doomed to failure here. In their expressive style, these heads bear witness to the new art movement under Akhenaten.

Original: Quartzite, Egyptian Museum, Cairo. Egypt, New Kingdom, 18th Dynasty, c. 1350 BC.

Polymer ars mundi museum replica cast by hand, height with shell limestone base 26 cm.
