

The Berlin Green Head

€790.00

Product no.: IN-011062

The Green Head, named after the colour of the material used, is one of the outstanding achievements of Egyptian sculpture of all time. The artist's familiarity with the anatomical structure of human facial formation, which is clearly expressed, is just as unique as the certainty of its representation and translation into artistic expression. Nevertheless, the Green Head should not be considered a realistic portrait of an anonymous civil servant or priest but rather a successful attempt to convey the spiritual depth and transcendence of human existence.

Original: National Museums in Berlin - Prussian Cultural Heritage. Egypt, Late Period, c. 300 BC, stone.

Polymer ars mundi museum replica cast by hand, height with diabase base 31 cm.

Product link: <https://www.arsmundi.de/en/the-berlin-green-head-011062/>