

Egyptian Hand Mirror

€398.00

Product no.: IN-001056

Highly polished mirrors were indispensable items in the cosmetic cult of noble Egyptian women. For the first time in the 18th Dynasty, the handles were designed as naked girls. A papyrus flower unfolded above their heads, from which the mirror surface grew similar to the morning sun disc.

Original: Berlin State Museums - Prussian Cultural Heritage. Egypt, New Kingdom, 18th Dynasty, c. 1400 BC.

Product link: <https://www.arsmundi.de/en/egyptian-hand-mirror-001056/>