

Mural relief "Faune and Bacchante", cast

€540.00

Product no.: IN-003583

Even the most severe threats of punishment from the Senate could not prevent the elegant Roman patricians, frivolously dressed up in mythological costumes, from giving free rein to their rites, pleasing the wine god Bacchus to the beckoning sound of the double flute.

Original: Musée du Louvre Paris. Roman, 2nd -1st century BC, stone.

Polymer ars mundi museum replica cast by hand, size with suspension device 61 x 32 cm.
