The Attic sculptor Leochares (375-310 BC), who helped to complete one of the ancient Seven Wonders of the World at the Mausoleum at Halicarnassus, realised the ideal of the god-like heroic Olympian with the "Praying Ephebe". In the consecrated district of Diadumenos near Olympia, the radiance of the eternal fire shone on the young man crowning himself with the fillet of victory. Raising his arms far above his head, he invokes the blessing of the immortals.

Original: Bronze, Staatliche Museen Preußischer Kulturbesitz Berlin, Pergamonmuseum. Leochares, c. 320 BC.

Polymer ars mundi museum replica, hand-cast and hand-patinated. Reduction, height approx. 75 cm.
