€198.00

Product no.: IN-732210

Fruit harvest made of finest ceramics from the north of Brazil.

The fruits by Brazilian designer Selma Calheira not only demonstrate the natural beauty of apples, pears and cherries, they are also quite "rich in vitamins". Not in the chemical sense because Calheira's fruits are made of fine ceramics. But certainly in the figurative sense: they are created in Bahia as part of a social project initiated by the artist that supports the disadvantaged population in the northern rural areas of Brazil and trains talented artisans to become professional ceramists. With the ceramic objects they make according to Calheira's designs, they have the opportunity to provide for the necessities of life.

Their ceramic fruits "according to nature" can be draped individually, in groups, in a bowl or as a sculpture and are elaborately handmade. The brown stems are made of wood and contrast beautifully with the ceramics. Each piece is unique. Only for indoor use.

Ceramic object "Cherry Ginja": size 21 x 48 cm. Weight approx. 1.5 kg.
