When looking at the wall sculptures, only the silhouettes of the motifs are recognisable. The surfaces of the wall objects show no further details of the motif but are covered with abstract, colourful and seemingly random patterns of acrylic paint. The contrast between the defined, figurative silhouette and the surreal colour palette creates a unique and exciting aesthetic.

The elaborate production process always begins with sketches drawn by hand. Based on these, the outlines of the motif are cut out of metal with a laser. The blank is then primed and painted with acrylic paint. Finally, the paint is smudged with a leather cloth, and the surface is briefly heated with a flame to create small bumps and bubbles. Due to such processing steps, the result is always unpredictable, and each object becomes a unique piece with a unique shape and colour structure.

Wall sculpture "Walking in the Rain":

It is a well-known fact that sunshine follows rain, and with the right equipment, even a heavy downpour will not spoil the mood on a family outing.

The wall object, made of steel by laser cutting, impressively combines four figures with two umbrellas to form a harmonious overall composition. The hand-painting and subsequent elaborate processing creates a lively surface design. Size 60 x 55 x 1 cm (h/w/d). Weight 2.5 kg.
