

Two-Headed Snake

€168.00

Product no.: IN-012328

The Egyptians called the two-headed, five-fold ringed primordial snake "Lord of Life". Snakes played an important role in the faith of the gods. They captured the imagination with their mysterious and dangerous nature. The annual moult was considered a symbol of eternal rejuvenation and rebirth.

Original: National Museum, Warsaw. Ptolemaic period, c. 200 BC.

Light green patinated cast metal. Height with pedestal 6 cm.

Product link: <https://www.arsmundi.de/en/two-headed-snake-012328/>