

Sculpture "Egyptian Palette in the Shape of a Fish", bronze

€590.00

Product no.: IN-936289

To grind and apply their ingredients for facial or body cosmetics, the Ancient Egyptians used round or rectangular cosmetic palettes made of slate. The shapes evolved and became more sophisticated around the protohistoric period, culminating in shield-shaped palettes. In the 4th millennium BC, they seem to have acquired a different function and were transformed into ornamental and commemorative objects.

Original: Slate, Egypt, c. 3500 BC, Musée du Louvre, Paris.

Replica in bronze with fine patination, on a marble pedestal. With certificate of authenticity. Size including pedestal 19.5 x 3.7 x 18 cm (h/w/d). Weight approx. 1.1 kg.
